SUBJECT: Filmore Bench and Bottom Appeal

TO: Garry Stone
Federal Water Master
290 South Arlington Avenue
Reno, Nevada 89501

Enclosed are my findings concerning the Bench and Bottom appeal of Donald Filmore, TCID serial number 107. The appeal on this property involves a total of 10.2 water righted acres. An on-site soils assessment of the parcel was completed on 4-14-04. The soils were verified to be significantly as mapped in the Fallon-Fernley Soil Survey. NRCS has evaluated the water table information, and run the pertinent soil property and irrigation information through Bureau of Reclamation's Agriculture Drainage Planning Program(ADPP). Based on the information available and the on-site investigation, we recommend the field involved be returned to a bench duty.

The Filmore property is delineated 85 percent Fc map unit (Fallon fine sandy loam, slightly saline), 10 percent Fn map unit (Fernley sand), and 5 percent Da map unit (Dia loam) in the Fallon-Fernley Soil Survey. The on-site investigation verified the soils as mapped in the soil survey, with the exception of the depth to a seasonal high water table.

One water table monitoring well was placed on the property and monitored by the landowner during the 2004 irrigation season. The average seasonal high water table, which occurred between 6/18 and 9/3, is as follows:

Well #1 ---------- 5.3 feet

The ADPP computer program establishes the seasonal high water table at 5.12 after the data was modified to simulate a bench allocation. The results show the water table meets the criteria for a bench allocation. A printout of the results is attached.

Reductions in the number of acres farmed in the area, the lining of ditches and canals, urban build-up, systems designed to irrigate more efficiently, and other water conservation measures are all probable causes of this change in depth of the water table. I did not see any exceptions noted for the Filmore property in the Bench and Bottom Criteria Report.

The Natural Resources Conservation Service provides leadership in a partnership effort to help people conserve, maintain, and improve our natural resources and environment.

An Equal Opportunity Provider and Employer

All information pertaining to well data has been returned to the person responsible for gathering the data. Any requests for this data should be directed to the landowner or irrigator. If you have any further questions, please contact me at (775)423-5124 ex. 112.
