Remarks:

This spring was first used in 1900 by Charles H.Odgers for watering his sheep and cattle, and he subsequently sold his range and land to Casten Olsen, who in turn sold the range and land to this claimant, and this claimant has used this spring exclusively ever since for the purpose of watering his sheep.

Each year the claimant has cleaned out the spring and reapired the dam and reservoir so as to make it more suitable for the purpose of watering his sheep.

This spring is one of a series of small springs and while none of them is sufficient to water a large herd of sheep, by combining them and ranging from one spring to the others, sufficient water is obtained to water a good sized herd.

Remarks:

Albert Rosenlund
