In Equity No. A-3-2-WEC

FINAL ORDER GRANTING
THE STATE OF NEVADA'S
MOTION FOR SUMMARY
JUDGMENT ON THE ISSUE
OF THE UNITED STATES'
APPLICATION FOR CHANGE
IN USE AND CHANGE OF PURPOSE

The State of Nevada asks this Court to dismiss the United States' Petition for A Change in Place and Purpose of Use filed on April 2, 1979. The State asks this Court to dismiss the petition without prejudice. This would allow the United States to refile its Petition after a showing that the petitioners have applied for said change and received an unfavorable ruling from the Nevada State Engineer. The United States seeks permission to use the unused portion of the water rights on the Pyramid Lake Paiute Reservation, initially awarded for agricultural purposes, for the fishery purposes. The Pyramid Lake fishery currently has an acute need

1 of additional water for both the endangered Cui-Ui and the 2 threatened Lahontan Cutthroat trout. Carson-Truckee Water
3 Conservancy District v. Watt, 549 F.Supp. 704, 706-708, 710-711
4 (D. Nev. 1982). These fishery purposes are consistent with the 5 recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling in Nevada v. United States,
6 U.S. ____, 103 S.Ct. 2906 (1983), per Justice Brennan's con-
7 ccurring opinion.

8 The decision in United States v. Orr Ditch Water Company,
9 In Equity, D. No. A-3 (D. Nev. 1944), is binding on all parties 10 and is controlling. Nevada v. United States, supra. The 11 September 8, 1944 Decree, at p. 88, provides:

12 Persons whose rights are adjudicated hereby,
13 their successors or assigns, shall be entitled 14 to change, in the manner provided by law the 15 point of diversion and the place, means, manner 16 or purpose of use of the waters to which they 17 are so entitled or of any part thereof, so far
18 as they may do so without injury to the rights 19 of other persons whose rights are fixed by 20 this decree. (Emphasis added).

21 This Court interprets ". . . in the manner provided by law. . ." to mean in accordance with Nevada state procedure for allowing changes.

22 The Pyramid Lake Paiute Tribe (Tribe) and the United States
23 oppose the Motion to Dismiss. They note that, historically, they 24 have attempted to avoid review of their applications by the State
25 Engineer. That is the reason for their history of invoking this 26 Court's jurisdiction. The United States and Tribe argue that the State of Nevada has consistently, in other cases, opposed the provision of additional water for the Pyramid Lake

1 fishery. Further, they assert that it is unreasonable to expect 2 a state official (here, the State Engineer) to differ from the 3 state's posture of opposing water for the fishery.

4 They also note that considering the application for fishery
5 water in the state administrative system would be inconsistent
6 with Cappaert v. United States, 426 U.S. 128, 96 S.Ct. 2062
7 (1976). In Cappaert, the Supreme Court held that federal 8 water rights are not dependent upon state law or state proce-
9 dures. Caepfert, however, is distinguishable from the present
10 case. In this case, there is no claim that the United States
11 must establish a reserved right under Nevada law (State's Reply 12 to Memoranda in Opposition to Motion to Dismiss, p. 6). The 13 existing establishment of the reserved right, in this case, 14 distinguishes this case from Caepfert.

15 In an attempt to apply state procedural requirements (e.g., 16 requiring that an application for change in use be presented to 17 the State Engineer), Nevada looks to Arizona v. San Carlos 18 Apache Tribe, ___ U.S. ___, 103 S.Ct. 3201 (1983). In San 19 Carlos Apache Tribe, the Supreme Court interpreted the McCarran
20 Amendment, 43 U.S.C. §666, to allow and encourage state courts
21 to undertake the task of quantifying Indian water rights in the 22 course of comprehensive water adjudications. While a determina-
23 tion made by the Nevada State Engineer is not identical to a 24 decision by a state court, the Supreme Court's theme of 25 "cooperative federalism" will be accomplished by requiring an 26 initial State Engineer determination of water rights.

1 The United States and the Tribe attempt to distinguish away
2 the San Carlos Apache Tribe decision as being applicable only to 3 general stream adjudications. Since presenting an application
4 to the State Engineer would not be part of a general stream 5 adjudication, they argue that San Carlos Apache Tribe is 6 inapplicable. They assert that the better use of the State 7 Engineer's expertise would be to allow the State Engineer to 8 testify in an evidentiary capacity.

9 Contrary to the United States' and Tribe's position, is the 10 trend of "cooperative federalism" as outlined in Nevada v.
11 United States, supra, and United States v. Alpine Land & 12 Reservoir Co., 697 F.2d 851 (9th Cir. 1983). In Alpine, the 13 Ninth Circuit addressed the United States' concern that federal 14 interests will be ignored by the Nevada State Engineer. The 15 appellate court stated, "We agree with the district judge that 16 the notice and protest procedures of Nevada law are adequate to 17 allow exploration of these issues, when they arise, before the 18 state engineer." 697 F.2d at 858. While the subject of Alpine 19 is different than in the present case, the confidence placed in 20 the Nevada procedural law is applicable.

21 As are outlined in the affidavit of Nevada State Engineer,
22 Peter G. Morros, there are practical justifications for requir-
23 ing that applications be made to the State Engineer. These 24 reasons are uncontradicted. The state has presented these 25 uncontradicted facts which would entitle it to a judgment as a 26 matter of law. The United States and Tribe have failed to

1 overcome this factual obstacle. Avila v. Travelers Insurance
2 Co., 651 F.2d 658 (9th Cir. 1981); British Airways Board v.
3 The Boeing Co., 585 F.2d 946 (9th Cir. 1978); Jones v.
4 Halekulani Hotel, Inc., 557 F.2d 1308 (9th Cir. 1977); Soto v.
5 City of Sacramento, 567 F.Supp. 662, 668-669 (E.D. Calif. 1983).

6 First, in all two hundred eighty-four (284) changes of use 7 and purpose, each change was initiated by presentation to the 8 State Engineer. Further, the United States has (in the past)
9 utilized the State Engineer review process (Morros affidavit, p.
10 3).

11 Second, the State Engineer has the manpower, staff, and 12 expertise to make a determination of the beneficial use. Further, 13 he is experienced at addressing claims for fishery uses (Morros 14 affidavit, p. 3). This Court has no more resources than did
15 U.S. District Judge Frank Norcross in 1940. In Judge Norcross'
16 Memorandum Decision and Order, in United States v. Orr Water
17 Ditch Co., et. al., In Equity A-3 (June 26, 1940), he, too, defers
18 to the requirement that the Raffetto application be made first 19 to the Nevada State Engineer.

20 Third, Nevada law has established notice procedures and 21 other procedures that facilitate an efficient administration of 22 applications for change in use and purpose. One such policy 23 provides for notification of change applications to the Federal 24 District Court Water Master (Morros affidavit, p. 3). Further, 25 Nevada state law, Nevada Revised Statute (N.R.S.) 533.030(2), 26 allows characterization of fishery water needs as a beneficial

1 use of water rather than a waste of water.

2 Fourth, requiring the State Engineer's action on all appli-
3 cations for change in use (including the United States' and 4 Tribes' petition) would ensure a uniform treatment of all 5 applications made. The Supreme Court recognized the need for 6 the uniformity of use of the Truckee River. Nevada v. United 7 States, supra, 103 S.Ct. at 292-293.

8 The nature of this case requires examination of the ori-
9 ginal Orr Water Ditch case, Judge Norcross' 1940 Memorandum
10 Order, and the affidavit of Nevada State Engineer Peter Morros.
11 A Federal Rule of Civil Procedure, Rule 12 Motion to Dismiss is 12 a judgment on the pleadings alone. Federal Rule 12(c), however, 13 allows this Court to characterize Nevada's Motion to Dismiss as 14 a Motion for Summary Judgment. The United States and Tribe have 15 been allowed to supplement their pleadings and argue this case
16 pursuant to the prescriptions of Federal Rules of Civil Pro-
17 cedure 12(c) and Local Rule 16(g); Local Rules of the District
18 of Nevada.

19 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that summary judgment is granted
20 the State of Nevada on the issue of presentation of the United 21 States' Application for Change in Use and Change of Purpose.
22 FRCivP 56. The petition must be presented to the Nevada State 23 Engineer for his review and action. The State is ordered to 24 submit a concise Proposed Finding of Fact, Conclusion of Law,
25 and Judgment consistent with this ruling. Local Rule 16(f),
26 Local Rules of the District of Nevada.
