Water was used every year subsequent to 1895 by Jacob Hofman except the year 1911, when the land hereinbefore mentioned was leased to a Miss Hider, with whom there was an understanding that the water should be used to irrigate said land.

The amount of water from this canyon or creek is very limited. It is seldom that enough water reaches the land herein mentioned to properly irrigate it.

The ditches have often been cleaned, but never with the intention of cleaning them. They were sufficiently large to carry any and all waters that could be turned in to them.
